

American Institute of Pakistan Studies

2018-2019 ANNUAL REPORT
October 1, 2018 - September 30, 2019

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Cover Photo Credit: Raavi Muzaffar Asdar

Junior Scholars Conference	2
Fellowships	3-4
Funded by CAORC	3
Funded by AIPS	3-4
Travel Grants	4-7
Funded by CAORC	4-6
Funded by AIPS	6-7
Short-Term Research Grants	7-9
Junior Faculty Training and Exchange Program	9-13
Exchanges: US Scholars to Pakistan	10-12
Exchanges: Pakistani Scholars to US Institutions	12-13
2019 AIPS Book Prize	13-14
Co-Sponsored Events	14-15
Embassy-Supported Facilitations	16-17
AIPS Sponsored Roundtable	17-18
CAORC Collaborative Community Colleges Workshop	18
Berkeley-AIPS Urdu Language Program	19
AIPS Contact Information	20

JUNIOR SCHOLARS CONFERENCE

AIPS hosted its third Junior Scholars Conference on October 11, 2018 in Madison, WI. This conference showcased the new research being done by junior scholars (both PhDs and graduate students with ABD status) in the field of Pakistan Studies in United States. The conference concluded with a reception hosted by AIPS.

SCHOLARS AND ABSTRACTS

1. Ahsan Kamal, PhD Candidate, Department of Sociology, UNC at Chapel Hill

Saving Sindhu: River Defense Movements Along the Indus River in Pakistan

2. Amna Qayyum, PhD Candidate, Department of History, Princeton University

Co-operatives and Contraceptives: Family Planning and Theories of Rural Development in Comilla, East Pakistan

3. Sohaib Baig, PhD Candidate, Department of History, University of California – Los Angeles

What Makes a Hanafi? The Juristic Boundaries of the Hanafi School of Law across Thatta and Medina in the 18th Century

4. Michelle Grisé, Associate Policy Researcher, RAND Corporation

Inside the Nuclear Labyrinth: Understanding the Consequences of Nuclear Weapons Development in Pakistan, 1972-1998

5. Mashail Malik, PhD Candidate, Department of Political Science, Stanford University

Political Violence and Ethnocentric Trust in Multiethnic Megacities: The Case of Karachi

6. Neelum Sohail, PhD Candidate, Department of History, Tufts University

Lord of the District and Next to God: Policing and Governance in the Punjab

7. Shehram Mokhtar, PhD Candidate, School of Journalism and Communication, U. Oregon

Gender and Sexuality of the Other: Under the Gaze of Transnational Documentary

8. Ghazal Asif, PhD Candidate, Department of Anthropology, Johns Hopkins University

Women's Work: Ethnography of a Pakistani Vocational Center

AIPS FELLOWSHIPS

AIPS awards Senior and Junior Research Fellowships to scholars conducting long-term (two to nine months) research projects. Fellows' abstracts and final reports can be found on the AIPS website.

FUNDED BY CAORC

1) Andrew Amstutz – Assistant Professor, University of Arkansas at Little Rock

Project Title: Unearthing Pakistan: Buddhist Art, Muslim Nationalism, and Global Public History, 1947-1977

Research Field: History

Destination: Italy

Dates: May 20, 2020 to August 5, 2020

2) Chad Haines – Assistant Professor, Arizona State University

Project Title: Urban Informality, Everyday Ethics, and Refugeehood: Re-Creating Community in Lahore

Research Field: Anthropology and Religious Studies

Destination: Pakistan

Dates: TBD

3) Salman Hussain – PhD Candidate, University of Michigan

Project Title: Gulfee Gangsterism: Masculinity and Migration in Pakistan

Research Field: Anthropology and History

Destination: U.A.E.

Dates: June 15, 2019 to November 15, 2019

4) Zayad Bangash – PhD Candidate, George Washington University

Project Title: The Army, Military Education, and State Sovereignty

Research Field: History

Destination: England

Dates: TBD

FUNDED BY AIPS

1) Fatima Tassadiq – PhD Candidate, University of Pennsylvania

Project Title: Moving Lahore: Mass Transit, Democracy and Materiality of Politics in Pakistan

Research Field: Anthropology

Destination: Pakistan

Dates: TBD

2) Zehra Husain – PhD Candidate, City University of New York – The Graduate Center

Project Title: Race, Visibility, and Vernacular Cosmopolitanism in a Pakistani Port Town

Research Field: Anthropology

Destination: Pakistan

Dates: TBD

3) Maira Hayat – Postdoctoral Fellow, Stanford University

Project Title: Ecologies of Water Theft in Pakistan: The Colony, the Corporation and the Contemporary

Research Field: Anthropology

Destination: Pakistan

Dates: June 24, 2019 to September 30, 2019

TRAVEL GRANTEES

AIPS awards Conference Travel Grants to help support its members participating in invited lectures and conferences, both nationally and internationally. Abstracts and final reports for all Travel Grant awardees can be found on the AIPS website.

FUNDED BY CAORC

1) Elizabeth Lhost – Postdoctoral Fellow, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Conference Name: Association for Asian Studies Annual Conference

Conference Date: March 21-24, 2019

Location: Denver, CO

Title of Paper: Taking Marriage into Account: Legal Complaints and the Matter of Money in Early Twentieth-Century South Asia

2) Feisal Khan – Professor, Hobart and William Smith Colleges

Conference Name: International Studies Association Annual Conference

Conference Date: March 27-30, 2019

Location: Toronto, Canada

Title of Paper: Meet your new Islamic Banker, the same as your old Islamic Banker? Assessing Pakistan's rebooted Islamic Banking System

3) Safoora Arbab – PhD Candidate, University of California-Los Angeles

Conference Name: MLA International Symposium

Conference Date: July 23-25, 2019

Location: Lisbon, Portugal

Title of Paper: Nonviolence, Anarchy and the New Story: The Resistance Literature of the Khudai Khidmatgars in the North-West Frontier of British India

4) Christopher Candland – Assistant Professor, Wellesley College

Conference Name: International Conference on Emerging Technologies in Educational Research and Practices

Conference Date: August 5-8, 2019

Location: Pakistan

Title of Paper: Thoughtful Use of Technology for Online Learning

5) Syeda ShahBano Ijaz – PhD Candidate, University of California, San Diego

Conference Name: Canadian Political Science Association

Conference Date: June 4-7, 2019

Location: Vancouver, Canada

Title of Paper: Voter Preferences and Foreign Aid: Experimental Evidence from Pakistan

6) Tariq Rahman – PhD Candidate, University of California, Irvine

Conference Name: 48th Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Paper: The Properties of Property: Patwaris, Digitization, and Land Records in Lahore

7) Rodrigo Chocano Paredes – PhD Candidate, Indiana University

Conference Name: 48th Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Washington D.C.

Title of Paper: Media-worthy Traditions: Musical Collaboration, Nation Building and Neoliberal Logics in Coke Studio Pakistan

8) Zunaira Komal – PhD Candidate, University of California-Davis

Conference Name: 48th Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Paper: Misrecognition of a Calamity: Azad Kashmir, Psychiatry and the Hold of the Secular

9) Mehtab Khan – PhD Candidate, University of California-Berkeley

Conference Name: 48th Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Paper: Copyright Law in Context: The Construction of 'Fair Use' in South Asia

10) Mustafa Menai – PhD Candidate, University of Pennsylvania

Conference Name: 48th Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Paper: The Adab (Etiquette) of Guidance: Intimacy and Pedagogy between Two Urdu Master Poets

FUNDED BY AIPS

1) Mashail Malik – PhD Candidate, Stanford

Conference Name: American Political Science Association Annual Meeting

Conference Date: August 29-September 1, 2019

Location: Washington, D.C.

Title of Paper: Social Identification and Political Accountability: Respect as a Club Good in Karachi, Pakistan

2) Usmaan Farooqui – PhD Candidate, University of Massachusetts-Amherst

Conference Name: Midwest Political Science Association 77th Annual Conference

Conference Date: April 4-7, 2019

Location: Chicago, IL

Title of Paper: The Neutral State: Political Performances and Knowledge Practices in Karachi's Waterscape

3) Minahil Asim – PhD Candidate, University of California-Davis

Conference Name: American Education Research Association Annual Conference

Conference Date: April 2019

Location: Toronto, Canada

Title of Paper: Strengthening Local Governance of Schools – Evidence from Pakistan

4) Asifa Jahangir – PhD Candidate, University of the Punjab

Conference Name: 48th Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Paper: Kabul Peacemaking Process: Role of Pakistan and its Concerns

5) Mian Adnan Ahmad – Filmmaker, Islamabad, Pakistan

Conference Name: Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Film: The Journey Within

6) Yaqoob Bangash – DPhil, Information Technology University

Conference Name: Annual Conference on South Asia

Conference Date: October 17-20, 2019

Location: Madison, WI

Title of Paper: The Punjab under Law: The Development of the Judiciary in the Punjab in the 19th Century

SHORT-TERM RESEARCH GRANTS

AIPS awards short-term research grants to scholars conducting preliminary and/or exploratory research in Pakistan. These grants, funded by AIPS, support one to three months of travel in Pakistan. Scholars' abstracts and final reports can be found on the AIPS website.

1) Ghazal Asif – PhD Candidate

US Institution: Johns Hopkins University

Field: Anthropology

Project Title: The Dalit Movement in Sindh

Dates: June 1 to August 20, 2019

2) Jennifer Dubrow – Associate Professor

US Institution: University of Washington

Field: Asian Language and Literature

Project Title: Voicing Dissent: Urdu Literacy Modernism and the Progressive Writers in 20th-century South Asia

Dates: July 12 to August 28, 2019

3) Sardar Hussain – PhD Candidate

US Institution: University of Texas at Austin

Field: Anthropology

Project Title: Sociospatial Transformations in the Old City of Lahore, Pakistan

Dates: June 1 to August 15, 2019

4) Hamza Iqbal – PhD Candidate

US Institution: University of Texas at Austin

Field: Comparative Literature

Project Title: Comparative Literature Assessment of Juan Elia

Dates: May 31 to August 26, 2019

5) Danish Khan – PhD Candidate

US Institution: University of Massachusetts-Amherst

Field: Economics

Project Title: Political Economy of Slums in Islamabad: Class, State, and Judiciary

Dates: April 14 to August 1, 2019

6) Zunaira Komal – PhD Candidate

US Institution: University of California-Davis

Field: Cultural Studies

Project Title: Madness in the Long Durée

Dates: July 1 to September 13, 2019

7) Suneel Kumar – PhD Candidate

US Institution: University of Georgia

Field: Anthropology

Project Title: Life in the Indus River: A more-than-human ethnography

Dates: May 25 to August 18, 2019

8) Alan Lee – PhD Candidate

US Institution: University of Wisconsin-Madison

Field: Anthropology

Project Title: Early Iron Production in the Northwestern South Asia: Technology and Power in the Early Historic Period, 800 BCE to 400 CE

Dates: July 10 to August 17, 2019

9) Amna Qayyum – PhD Candidate

US Institution: Princeton University

Field: History

Project Title: Debating “Abadi”: Population Control, Food Production, and Islamic Thought in Pakistan, 1947-71

Dates: June 1 to August 15, 2019

10) Syed Ali Mehdi Zaidi – Master’s Student

US Institution: University of Washington

Field: South Asian Studies

Project Title: The Work of the Dead and Living: Hazaras of Quetta

Dates: June 10 to September 10, 2019

JUNIOR FACULTY TRAINING AND EXCHANGE PROGRAM

The AIPS Junior Faculty Training and Exchange Program is an Embassy-funded program (by the US Embassy in Pakistan) supporting the exchange of senior US scholars and junior Pakistani scholars for mentorships and trainings.

This grant seeks to increase the academic and professional caliber at Pakistani universities through a sustained transfer of expertise. To date, AIPS has hosted numerous workshops, lectures, mentorships and other academic engagements as part of this program, providing research and curricular training to junior faculty, exposing them to scholarly articles and helping them foster new relationships with scholars in the US and Pakistan. The impacts of this program have the potential to reach even greater audiences as the trained junior Pakistani faculty pass on their learnings to their students and other colleagues.

EXCHANGES: US SCHOLARS TO PAKISTAN

- 1) Grantee: Robert Nichols
US Institution: Stockton University
Research Field: History
US Cohort: David Gilmartin (North Carolina State University), Matthew A. Cook (North Carolina Central University), and Robert Nichols (Stockton University)
Partner Institution in Pakistan: Lahore University of Management Sciences (LUMS)
Program Dates: December 27, 2018-January 1, 2019

Summary: The three scholars above organized and led two workshops for Junior Pakistani scholars working towards PhDs in History. the “History Dissertation Workshop” was held at the Punjab Higher education commission in Lahore on December 29-31, 2018 and the “History Research Methods and Proposal Workshop” was hosted at Quaid-i-Azam University in Islamabad on January 3-4, 2019. Thirteen different participants attended each workshop. AIPS solicited applications from multiple History Departments in Pakistan, and the faculty organizers selected a range of participants who included representatives from across the diverse provinces, regions, and universities of Pakistan. Participants were graduate students and junior faculty at the proposal, research, and writing stages of their research projects/dissertations.

- 2) Grantee: Patricia Pashby
US Institution: University of Oregon
Research Field: Linguistics
Partner Institution in Pakistan: University of Education, Lahore Campus
Program Dates: December 5-25, 2018

Summary: Dr. Patricia Pashby facilitated a series of seven workshops and ten individual mentorships for faculty teaching English or other language courses in Pakistan. A total of 38 participants attended one or more of the sessions. Dr. Pashby took a “hands-on” teaching approach to support and demonstrate her goal of encouraging interactive, student-centered learning. Dr. Pashby co-facilitated a session on Student-Centric Learning at the First Annual International Conference on English Literature, Linguistics and Teaching at the University of Education, Lahore and presented a keynote titled “Revisiting Motivation in Language Learning.”

- 3) Grantee: Marcia Hermansen
US Institution: Loyola University-Chicago
Research Field: Religion
Partner Institution in Pakistan: International Islamic University-Islamabad
Program Dates: October 22-26, 2018

Summary: Dr. Marcia Hermansen led a five-day workshop titled “New Developments and Debates in Islamic Studies” at the International Islamic University-Islamabad. This workshop addressed current trends in the academic study of Islam (Islamic Studies) to acquaint Pakistani academics in related fields with theories and practices impacting the academic study of Islam, major debates in the field, innovative pedagogical strategies, and approaches from the academic study of religion. The goal was to prepare early career Pakistani faculty from diverse Pakistani universities for research publications and curriculum designs that fulfill local needs and interests while meeting international standards. Following the workshop, Dr. Hermansen participated in five other academic engagements, reaching over 800 people. A follow-up workshop took place in Islamabad on April 23, 2019.

- 4) Grantee: Matthew A. Cook
US Institution: North Carolina Central University
Research Field: Humanities
US Cohort: Collie Fulford (North Carolina Central University), Russell Robinson (North Carolina Central University), and Matthew A. Cook (North Carolina Central University)
Partner Institution in Pakistan: Lahore University of Management Sciences (LUMS)
Program Dates: May 6-10, 2019

Summary: These three US scholars are fellows of the NCCU-Duke Digital Humanities Initiative (<https://sites.fhi.duke.edu/nccudhfellows>).

They utilized the skills they developed as fellows to work with junior Pakistani faculty to build their digital humanities skills. The workshop focus revolved around how to integrate these skills into teaching and classroom activities. Twelve Pakistani scholars participated in the workshop, which included one-on-one mentoring by the NCCU faculty.

The Pakistani scholars participating were M. Ibrahim Khokhar (Shah Abu Latif University), Marvi Sheikh (University of Sindh), Shumaila Umer (Sardar Bahadur Khan University), Ayesha Akram (University of Education, Lahore), Sania Munir (University of Lahore), Ihsanullah Jan (Hazara University), Fatima Bilquis (LUMS), Furrukh Khan (Lahore University of Management Sciences), Nadhra Shabhz Naeem Khan (LUMS), Antonio Aarasco (LUMS), and Ali Usman Qasmi (LUMS). The workshop in Lahore was the first part of a two-part program. The second part took place in North Carolina between May 20 and June 24, 2019.

A participant from this event, Ayesha Akram (University of Education, Lahore), facilitated her own workshops on Digital Humanities at University of Education, Lahore and University of Management and Technology, Lahore. More than 40 faculty members from 9 different campuses joined as participants.

EXCHANGES: PAKISTANI SCHOLARS TO US INSTITUTIONS

- 1) Grantee: Elena Bashir
US Institution: University of Chicago
Research Field: Linguistics
Visiting Scholars from Pakistan: Saeed Lehri (University of Balochistan, Quetta)
Program Dates: Spring 2019
- 2) Grantee: Cara Cilano
US Institution: Michigan State University

Research Field: English

Visiting Scholar from Pakistan: Henna Karamat (Shaheed Benazir Bhutto Women University)

Program Dates: Spring 2019

- 3) Grantee: J. Mark Kenoyer
US Institution: University of Wisconsin-Madison
Research Field: Anthropology
Visiting Scholars from Pakistan: Nafees Ahmed (Punjab University) and Mueezuddin Hakal (Quaid-i-Azam University)
Program Dates: Spring & Summer 2019
- 4) Grantee: Gabriel Filippelli
US Institution: Indiana University – Purdue University Indianapolis
Research Field: Environmental Science
Visiting Scholars from Pakistan: Rabbia Murtaza and Muhammad Zahir (Both of COMSATS Institute of Information Technology)
Program Dates: August-September 2019
- 5) South Asia Summer Language Institute - Teacher Training Certificate
US Institution: University of Wisconsin-Madison
Visiting Scholars from Pakistan: Jahan Zeb Ahmed (University of California, Santa Barbara), Zahid Hussain (LUMS), and Ashok Kumar Khatri (Punjab University, Lahore)
Program Dates: June 2019

2019 AIPS BOOK PRIZE

Author: Dr. Ammara Maqsood

Title: The New Pakistani Middle Class

Book Description: Pakistan's presence in the outside world is dominated by images of religious extremism and violence. These images—and the narratives that interpret them—inform events in the international realm, but they also twist back around to shape local class politics. In The New Pakistani Middle Class, Ammara Maqsood focuses on life in contemporary Lahore, where she unravels these narratives to show how central they are for understanding competition and the quest for identity among middle-class groups.

Lahore's traditional middle class has asserted its position in the socioeconomic hierarchy by wielding significant social capital and dominating the politics and economics of urban life. For this traditional middle class, a Muslim identity is about being modern, global, and on the same footing as the West. Recently, however, a more visibly religious, upwardly mobile social group has struggled to distinguish itself against this backdrop of conventional middle-class modernity, by embracing Islamic culture and values. The religious sensibilities of this new middle-class group are often portrayed as Saudi-inspired and Wahhabi. Through a focus on religious study gatherings and also on consumption in middle-class circles—ranging from the choice of religious music and home décor to debit cards and the cut of a woman's burkha—The New Pakistani Middle Class untangles current trends in piety that both aspire toward, and contest, prevailing ideas of modernity. Maqsood probes how the politics of modernity meets the practices of piety in the struggle among different middle-class groups for social recognition and legitimacy.

Author Bio: Dr. Ammara Maqsood is a Lecturer in Social Anthropology at University College London (UCL). Before going to UCL, Dr. Maqsood was a Lecturer in Social Anthropology at Manchester and, prior to that, ESRC Future Research Leaders Fellow at the Institute of Social and Cultural Anthropology and Junior Research Fellow at St Catherine's College, Oxford.

AIPS (CO)SPONSORED EVENTS

The following conferences, workshops and other academic events were partially or fully sponsored by the American Institute of Pakistan Studies.

1) Special Lunch Session: The Disposable Pakistani Scholars at AAS-in Asia (Delhi, India): A RoundTable Discussion

Date: October 12, 2018

Location: 47th Annual Conference on South Asia (Madison, WI)

Funded by: American Institute of Pakistan Studies (AIPS)

Organizer: Yasmin Saikia (Arizona State University)

On June 7, 2018, The Wire was the first to report on the ban on Pakistani scholars (irrespective of their nationality) from attending the AAS-in-Asia conference at Delhi. The exclusion of scholars from attending a conference may seem insignificant in comparison to the life and death situations many immigrants/refugees are facing worldwide, but it is a testament to an emerging pattern of hypernationalism penetrating into academia. It marks out select groups of academics from certain places and/or political affiliations as 'disposable'. The restrictive and punitive practices stifle academic discussion and debate; constrain the exchange of ideas and knowledge production, while establishing the relationship between knowledge and power. In so doing, the excluded and marginalized scholars and their voices become reduced to what Gorgio Agamben and Judith Butler refer to as 'bare life', as disposable bodies.

This round table was motivated by concerns regarding the particular matrix under which nationalist politics and denial of voice to Pakistani scholars feed into the objectification of Muslims, the inadequacy of AAS's response allowing the Indian government to make the Pakistani scholars disposable, and a re-examination of academic professional ethics. The round table included several speakers from Pakistan, India, and Bangladesh and was moderated by Yasmin Saikia.

2) Spaces of Capital: 9th Annual Pakistan Conference

Date: March 20, 2019

Location: University of Michigan, USA

Funded by: AIPS and University of Michigan

Organizer: Matthew Hull (University of Michigan)

The conference brought together vibrant scholars around the intersection of economy and politics. Most of them had not met each other so it was an opportunity for them to make new connections not only with scholars in the UM community but among themselves. The first panel dealt with urban infrastructure with a paper by Amen Jaffer (LUMS) on waste management and a paper by Maira Hayat (Stanford) on water. The second panel examined the relation between contemporary rural economic arrangements and long-standing social groups like caste and lineage, with papers by Muhammad Ali Jan (Oxford) and Nicolas Martin (University of Zurich). The artist Saima Zaidi (Habib University) gave an extended talk and visual presentation of the work of her design group in the Lahore's Old City. The conference ended with a screening of the film, The Rebel Optimist, about the acclaimed activist Perween Rahman, a former participant in the UM Pakistan conference. Approximately 60-70 people attended at least a portion of the conference. Attendees included undergraduates, graduate students, faculty, and members of the public from outside the UM community.

3) Celebration of Dr. Hafeez Malik

Date: July 17, 2019

Location: Pakistan Embassy, Washington DC, USA

Funded by: AIPS and US Embassy

The purpose of the gathering was to celebrate the life and scholarship of Professor Hafeez Malik and to highlight the many contributions of AIPS in supporting scholarship about Pakistan in the U.S. higher education community and improving the academic caliber of students and faculty in Pakistan. Approximately 85 guests attended this celebration.

EMBASSY-SUPPORTED FACILITATIONS

1) Dynamics of Countering Human Trafficking in South Asia

Grantee: Hassan Abbas

US Institution: National Defense University

Research Field: Security Studies

Program Dates: December 17-23, 2019

Summary: Dr. Hassan Abbas led two workshops in Islamabad and Lahore, Pakistan. They focused on fully understanding the nature and magnitude of human trafficking in the broader South Asian region and were geared towards developing local capacity to counter this challenge as well as studying the dynamics that allow this menace to thrive at a global scale. A series of structured discussions considered the personal and social consequences of trafficking (violence, health, post-traumatic stress disorder, etc.), the ways that trafficking affects children, and the strategies that victims adopt to survive. The groups also assessed a variety of efforts being made to help trafficked victims. Over 20 participants attended each workshop.

2) Air Quality in Pakistan

Grantee: Gabriel Filippelli

US Institution: Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis

Research Field: Air Quality & Health

Program Dates: April 13-25, 2019

Summary: Greater awareness of the negative impacts of air pollution on public health has made this a prime issue in many countries. Pakistan currently has almost no air quality monitoring capabilities, so it is difficult to assess the true impacts of air quality on health and nearly impossible to determine and eradicate the sources of air pollution. In line with a continued USG policy of constructing air quality monitoring facilities on Embassies and Posts in vulnerable countries, the posts in Pakistan are bringing several testing facilities online. Dr.

Filippelli, an Air Quality Fellow for Embassy Islamabad and an expert in air quality and health, delivered a series of lectures, workshops, and demonstrations to raise awareness of these issues and to build dialogs among university researches, students, governmental, and non-governmental entities on this issue. Through the AIPS-sponsored series of events, which occurred in Karachi, Lahore, and Islamabad, Dr. Philippelli interacted with approximately 1000 people over 11 days.

3) Media Matters: Responsible Reporting

Grantees: Jill Filipovic, Ty McCormick, and Lauren Bohn

US Affiliations: Freelance Journalists

Research Field: Journalism

Program Dates: April 24-26, 2019

Summary: The journalists listed above conducted a series of workshops and lectures/discussions on a variety of topics related to journalism in conjunction with a conference on media in Pakistan, “Fake News and Facts in our Region” organized by the Institute of Regional Studies (IRS) in Islamabad. Filipovic, McCormick, and Bohn’s workshops and lectures, held in Islamabad, Lahore, and Karachi, brought together journalists, students and stakeholders in Pakistan, opening lines of engagement and information with the U.S. journalists and reached nearly 500 people. Concepts such as the right to free speech, free press, the free exercise of religion, and women’s rights were discussed in depth, as were misconceptions about Pakistan and local frustrations with American journalistic coverage. The American journalists were educated about the Pakistani press, including the robust journalistic traditions and ongoing challenges (financial, political and social) that Pakistani journalists face. It is expected that this information will be passed on to other journalists in the country, furthering the reach of the program.

AIPS SPONSORED ROUNDTABLE

AAS-in-Asia Conference

Bangkok, Thailand

July 2019

Panel: Neoliberalism and Processes of Marginalisation in Pakistan’s Cities

Chaired by: Nida Kirmani, Lahore University of Management Sciences (LUMS)

Papers:

- 1) Title: Opportunity and Stigma: The Paradoxes of Working with Waste in Lahore
Presenter: Amen Jaffer
Affiliation: LUMS
- 2) Title: Sexual Citizenship and the Politics of Transgender Recognition in Pakistan
Presenter: Shermeen Bano
Affiliation: University of Management Technology
- 3) Title: Urban Process in the Postcolonial Punjab: 'Dispossession by Speculation'
Presenter: Danish Khan
Affiliation: University of Massachusetts

CAORC COLLABORATIVE COMMUNITY COLLEGES WORKSHOP

Religion and Culture in the Postcolonial City, Lahore, Pakistan, June 8-22, 2019

Participants: Luke Wagner, Heather Jay McLean-Riggs, Rajender Kaur, Becky Duckett, Robert Soza, Sanket Desai, Barbara Crain, Rose Aslan, Emma Munoz, Paul Edleman, Michael DeVivo, Stacy Kowtko, Glenn Corbett (CAORC Admin)

Program Organizers: Gwendolyn Kirk (Assistant Professor, LUMS), Sardar Hussain (PhD Candidate, UT-Austin)

Community Colleges:

California State University-Long Beach
Seattle Central College
William Patterson University
Gadsden State Community College
Mesa Community College
Montgomery County Community College
NOVA Community College
California Lutheran University
Montgomery College
Sauk Valley Community College
Grand Rapids Community College
Spokane Community College

Description: CAORC and AIPS hosted a fully-funded faculty development seminar for community college and MSI faculty in Lahore, Pakistan. Security studies, religious studies, urban studies, cultural studies, and History all have various interests in and viewpoints on Pakistan. This seminar, Religion and Culture in the Postcolonial City, sought to add nuance and context to these understandings by providing participants with firsthand experiences of various cultural sites and practices in Lahore, including its medieval walled city and its colonial architectural landmarks, as well as facilitating meetings with local scholars, artists, and others. Through encountering Lahore's urban geography, participants glimpsed how religious diversity, political struggle, and cultural expression fold into each other in this ancient city of over ten million people. Upon returning to their respective institutions in the US, the participants can create and develop curricular materials on Pakistan to be used in the classroom.

BERKELEY-AIPS URDU LANGUAGE PROGRAM

Since 2014, AIPS has facilitated this in-country program with the Institute for South Asia Studies at Berkeley. Their partnership brings fellows to LUMS for language training in the fall.

2019 Cohort:

Noor Asif, University of Washington, Seattle

Patricia Hartland, University of Notre Dame

Lauren Smyth, University of California-Santa Barbara

Saa'id Arshad, Dartmouth College

Harris Chowdhary, University of Texas, Dallas

Devyani Mehta, American University

Sarah Robinson, University of California, Los Angeles

Georg Lilie, School of Oriental and African Studies

Caylee Hong, University of California, Berkeley

Jackson Walker, Northwestern University

Talib Jabbar, University of California, Santa Cruz

AIPS CONTACT INFORMATION

President

Dr. Farhat Haq
Chair, Political Science
Monmouth College, 700 East Broadway
Monmouth IL 61462 - 1998
Tel: 309-457-2189
Email: farhat@monmouthcollege.edu

US Office

Laura Hammond, U. S. Director
University of Wisconsin - Madison
B488 Medical Science Center
1300 University Avenue
Madison, WI 53706
Tel: 608-265-1471
Email: aips@pakistanstudies-aips.org

Islamabad Office

Nadeem Akbar, Pakistan Director
#18, St 85 Ataturk Ave G-6-4
Islamabad, Pakistan
Phone: 92-51 283 1341, 95-51 283 1342
Fax: 92-51 283 1343
Email: nadeem@aips.edu.pk